Connecticut Waters, by Cary B. Davis

Cary Davis may look through the lens, but she takes pictures with her heart. In her new book, Connecticut Waters, she beautifully captures the shoreline we all love. The perfect gift!

Lincoln and the Fight for Peace, by John Avlon

I thoroughly enjoyed this book about one of our greatest Presidents, Abraham Lincoln, and his plan to secure lasting peace after the Civil War. It gives remarkable details of this time before his death, including a trip he took with his son to the battlefield. It reads like a novel, with personal details about his family, and cabinet members which were completely fascinating. Timely and relevant even today!

Shellfish, by Cynthia Nims

This is the perfect little Seafood cookbook! It is perfectly sized for ease of use and filled with delicious recipes with a different twist. Mussels and chickpea salad, avocado with scallop salsa, grilled shrimp on lentil arugula salad to name a few, are most certainly on my short list this Spring! ~ Christine

Painting the Light, by Sally Cabot Gunning

This is a beautifully written novel of love, loss and reinvention of a strong woman, Ida Pease; fighting to find a life for herself after tragic loss. It is set at the end of the nineteenth century on Martha's Vineyard, with visits to Boston and Block Island. Ida is a heroine to fall in love with, as you read her daily struggles as a female artist and sheep farmer. I truly did not want this wonderful story to end. ~ Christine

Travels with George, by Nathaniel Philbrick

Follow Washington's excursions from Mount Vernon to the new capitol in New York, in a month long tour of Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and the Carolinas with award-winning author Nathaniel Philbrick. Written at a time when our Founding Fathers are under increased scrutiny, Philbrick takes a tour of Washington's America 299 years later to answer the question, "Does Washington still matter?"

Connecticut Bootlegger Queen, Nellie Green, by Tony Renzoni

Meet Connecticut's own Nellie Green, "Queen of the Rumrunners on the East Coast" as seen through the eyes of local author Tony Renzoni. Hailing from East Haven Connecticut, Nellie built an underground empire during the 1920's Prohibition era, in a business world dominated by men. Nellie was a tough woman, and this interesting read full of local characters, chronicles her hard work and personal hardships. ~ Christine

To Tell You the Truth, by Gilly MacMillan

Everybody has told a lie, but what happens when we can't tell our own lies from the truth? Lucy Harper's younger brother disappeared one night, and thirty years later he has yet to be found. Now, a murder mystery fiction writer, Lucy's books are beginning to seep into her own life when her husband, Dan, goes missing. But who can trust a fiction writer, especially one who can differentiate her own stories from reality? This novel keeps you turning pages and guessing until the very end. ~ Jackie

Home is Where the Heart Is, by Jonny Lambert

What a sweet children's book this is! It is a beautifully illustrated story celebrating the joys of friendship in an unlikely one between a Bear and a Hare. When Bear suffers a tragic loss, they find their friendship to be more important than any worldly possession. ~ Christine
